Chad Davis joins RumbergerKirk as director of business development and marketing

September 22, 2026

Chad Davis has joined RumbergerKirk as director of business development and marketing. He will lead the firm’s business development, marketing, communications and client growth initiatives across all five of its offices.

In his new role, he will work closely with firm leadership to strengthen client relationships, identify new business opportunities, enhance the firm’s market presence and develop strategies that support attorneys and practice groups.

“Chad brings a strategic and collaborative approach to business development and marketing that aligns well with where we are headed as a firm,” said Frank Sheppard, RumbergerKirk managing partner.

Davis has graduate degrees in business and international management and studied at Thunderbird School of Global Management.
